

Baba Global Exports

A Babani Holdings Venture

Feeding People Is the Point.

Real food should not be a luxury good. Baba Global Exports exists to close the distance between the farmers growing real food and the families who need it — starting in the Dominican Republic and built to expand. We are not just moving boxes of produce. We are building the logistics backbone — air freight today, ocean and rail as we scale — that lets local farmer networks feed more people, in more places, more reliably than the current system allows.

This is a for-profit operation built on a simple bet: that a company organized around getting real food to real people, efficiently and at scale, can outcompete a broken supply chain — and make money doing it. That is how we think about our part in the fight against food insecurity, and it is why the network behind this catalog keeps growing.

Baba Global Exports puts buyers across North America, Europe, and the Caribbean in direct contact with fresh produce and dry goods sourced through our trade partner network in the Dominican Republic. Our partners have run an export operation continuously for more than two decades — we bring consistent quality, on-time shipping, and freshness to every order, backed by relationships built across the region over that entire time.
